

---

EXECUTIVE PROFILE

---

Carl Lindeborg

FELLOW

---

“We have engaged Carl for both internal and external purposes and been very satisfied every time. As participant you get energy and insights, as customer you get reliability and professionalism. Carl has a down-to-earth way of approaching his topics – he really makes the sometimes complex easy to understand and his message goes deep.”

Madeleine Brehmer

CEO
SABIS

---

“I have engaged Carl on a number of occasions as speaker and leadership trainer. We highly appreciate Carl’s contribution and he has by sharing his perspectives and tools given me and my groups new inspiration and energy.”

Fredrik Swahn

Production Manager
Scania

Carl Lindeborg is a Fellow with Oxford Leadership. Carl is a Consultant, Trainer and Speaker focusing on Leadership Capability Building, Strategy Alignment and Organisational Development. Carl has worked with Electrolux, Wacker Chemie and AkzoNobel, as well as been a member of the Board of Directors of Swedish listed company Avonova. Carl is based in Sweden.

As a former consultant at McKinsey & Co, Carl has worked with a range of major firms to improve strategies, management structures and organisations in a diverse number of countries, focusing on industries like private equity, pulp & paper, high tech and appliances.

Working with these and other businesses has provided Carl with a wealth of experience and expertise. He has delivered more than two hundred workshops, speeches and programmes for corporate clients and at guest appointments at prestigious institutions including the Harvard Business School. Drawing on his background in the professional service industry, he is currently the Programme Director for the Managing Professional Service Firm programme at Stockholm School of Economics.

In his native Sweden Carl has published 25 articles on personal leadership in Affarsvarlden, Sweden’s leading business magazine. He has also authored and co-authored a further three books and developed an audio-based mental training programme to support successful execution of visions and goals.

Carl is a graduate of the Stockholm School of Economics with a major in Financial Accounting. He has studied international management at Richard Ivey School of Business and undertaken further trainings at Karolinska Institutet (Sweden), NLP University (USA), and with Oxford Leadership.

Carl works in Swedish and English.