Mine Yücesoy is a Fellow of Oxford Leadership. She brings over 18 years of experience in Human Resources and Human Resources Development and has been a management team member of several leadership teams, initiating training and leadership development programs at all levels. Today she is working as a consultant focusing on HR and Leadership development as well as individual and team coaching. Mine is based in Turkey.

Mine brings clarity and focus when partnering with clients or identifying talent development needs, enabling goals to be met, and values and vision to be attained. She has been instrumental in the design and implementation of HR strategies and processes in a number of client systems. Mine has also designed and launched systems and processes to attract top talent into many roles.

In her previous role, Mine planned and assessed executive development and talent management programmes at one of Europe’s largest Banks.

Mine has studied Marketing Communication and Public Relations at Bahçeşehir University and has a Finance Degree from Istanbul University.

Mine volunteered as Vice President of Human Resources for AIESEC Turkey, who build cross-cultural understanding across nations, and promote and drive participation in implementing the UN’s Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Mine is still supporting AIESEC and TurkishWIN voluntarily.

Mine works in Turkish and English.
